Comments:

In preparing its Mission Statement, Marshall University followed the guidelines set forth by the Board of Trustees and the outline of the Board's Mission Statement. Two years' of deliberation and effort went into this project.

It is unfortunate that when changes are introduced at the Board level, the institution is given very little time in which to respond to those changes.

Although the "Programs and Priorities" section has been removed from the Mission Statement itself, we recommend strongly that it become a part of the appendices or working papers associated with the document as it reflects the conclusion of the Faculty Senate, after long and careful consideration.
